Yellow eyes can also be a signal that your baby has sickle cell anemia, a disease more common in African-American babies where the red blood cells are rigid and crescent-shaped. It could also be a sign of Hepatitis. Both diseases show up a few months after the typical jaundice period, so you should keep an eye out for the signs for a while.

15 Things To Know If The Baby Turns Yellow | BabyGaga

Many babies develop yellow skin (jaundice) during the first week of life which then goes away. The cause usually is a mild immaturity of the liver. On occasion, the jaundice may be due to a blood incompatibility between baby and mother. This resolves but may take a few more days.

I had my baby in 2004 and spent a lot of time looking for his baby book. There are so many to choose from but I found the majority of them to be impractical to write in and very commercial, often even tacky. "My Baby's Journal" has beautiful images of babies and related items in all different pale shades.
